EDITORIAL

This Special Issue of the IIUM Law Journal is based on selected papers from the International Conference on Law, Order and Criminal Justice, which took place from November 19-20, 2014 at the Kuala Lumpur Campus, International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM). The Conference was hosted by the Ahmad Ibrahim Kulliyah of Laws, IIUM, in collaboration with the Malaysian Judiciary, the Royal Malaysian Police, the Institute of Public Security Malaysia (IPSOM) and the National Council of Professors. The theme of the Conference “Criminal Justice System in the 21st Century: Spirit, Form and Challenges” covered different agencies involved in enforcing law and order, preventing crimes and meting out punishments as well as how they worked together in establishing the principles of equity, fairness and justice.

We would like to extend our heartfelt appreciation to the expert reviewers who have assisted us in the strict blind peer review process of the 7 articles published herein.

Alhamdulillah, all was made possible with the grace of Allah the Almighty!
