

PREFACE

We are glad to present this Special Issue of IIUM Law Journal. It is a compilation of 6 papers presented at the 8th International Conference on Law and Society (ICLAS) 2019, held from 6 to 7 April at Fatih Sultan Mehmet Vakif University, Istanbul, Turkey. The conference was co-organised by the Faculty of Law, Fatih Sultan Mehmet Vakif University, Turkey and the Ahmad Ibrahim Kulliyah of Laws, International Islamic University Malaysia.

ICLAS 2019 is a continuation of the ICLAS brand name which has been successfully organised for eight consecutive years with the involvement of many parties with the main objectives to address pertinent issues to law, social sciences and business practices; to generate ideas and writings on such issues, and to create networking between academics and with professional bodies and beyond. The theme of this Special Issue is 'Law in the Digitalization Era' and it covers various aspects of law including legal technology, media law, competition law, cyberlaw, child law, and health product regulation. Each paper published in this issue underwent IIUM Law Journal's stringent peer-review process involving a minimum of two reviewers. The journal is of prestigious standing and is a point of reference for authors, scholars, and researchers both in Malaysia and across the globe.

We would like to extend our heartfelt appreciation to the contributors as well as expert reviewers who have assisted us in the strict blind peer review process of the 6 articles published herein. We would also like to thank IIUM Law Journal's Editor, Editorial Board Members, and journal secretary for their advice and dedication with respect to the quality of this Special Issue and in helping to make this publication a success. With the grace of Allah the Almighty, we are extremely happy to bring out this ICLAS 2019 Special Issue. It is hoped that this publication to be a good reference and great use for all readers, both scholars, and practitioners, and would encourage researchers to be more active in publishing their research papers and contribute to the scholarly world.
